Discussion questions from the message.

1. The word “gospel” communicates the idea of world changing news. What are some examples of this kind of news?
2. What is the difference between information and good news? What makes Jesus’ death, burial, and resurrection more than just information? What are the implications of this when we share the gospel message?
3. The book of Mark presents Jesus as a servant. Why is this surprising when we read Mark 1:1? Why is a portrait of Jesus as a servant helpful for us (in contrast to Jesus as a King in Matthew)?
4. Why is it important for us to understand that the beginning of the good news starts before the ministry of Jesus? Why is the Old Testament important?
5. How is John like Elijah? Why is this important?
6. What do verses 7-8 teach us about John? What can we learn from His response?
